[State Council Circular on the Rescinding of Some Agricultural and Forestry Laws and Regulations (15 September 1986)]

(Guofa [0948 4099] (1986) No 89)

[Text] In accordance with the requirements of State Council work of carrying out an overall sorting out of laws and regulations, work on the sorting out of administrative laws and regulations and documents of a legal nature (hereinafter abbreviated to laws and regulations) of State Council departments, in the areas of agriculture (animal-raising and fishery), forestry, water conservancy and hydroelectricity and meteorology, promulgated or approved and promulgated by the State Council (including the Government Administration Council), of the period 1949 to 1984, has been completed. A total of 24 laws and regulations which should be rescinded have been sorted out and after individual reexamination by the State Council's Legislation Bureau and State Council consideration, it was decided to rescind them. (See Appendix 1 for the titles of the laws and regulations.)

At the same time, three laws and regulations in the areas of agriculture (animal-raising and fishery), forestry, water conservancy and hydroelectricity and meteorology, which have already been formally rescinded, were sorted out, as were 76 laws and regulations, whose period of applicability has already expired or whose objects no longer exist and therefore automatically cease to be in effect. These have also been individually reexamined by the State Council's Legislation Bureau and are appended herewith. (See Appendix 2 and Appendix 3 for the titles of the laws and regulations.) This is for the convenience of all areas and all departments in gaining an overall understanding of the situations by which agricultural and forestry laws no longer have effect and will be of benefit to work.
